Montana State

provides . . .

M
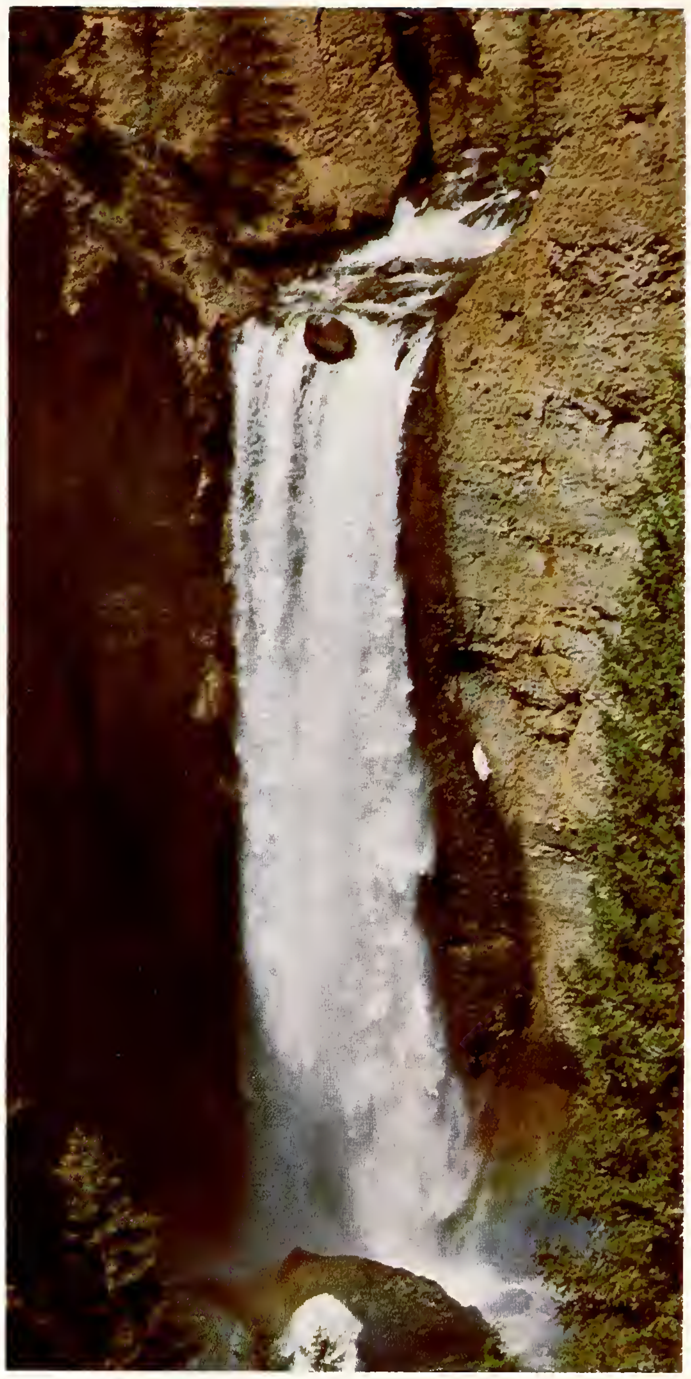
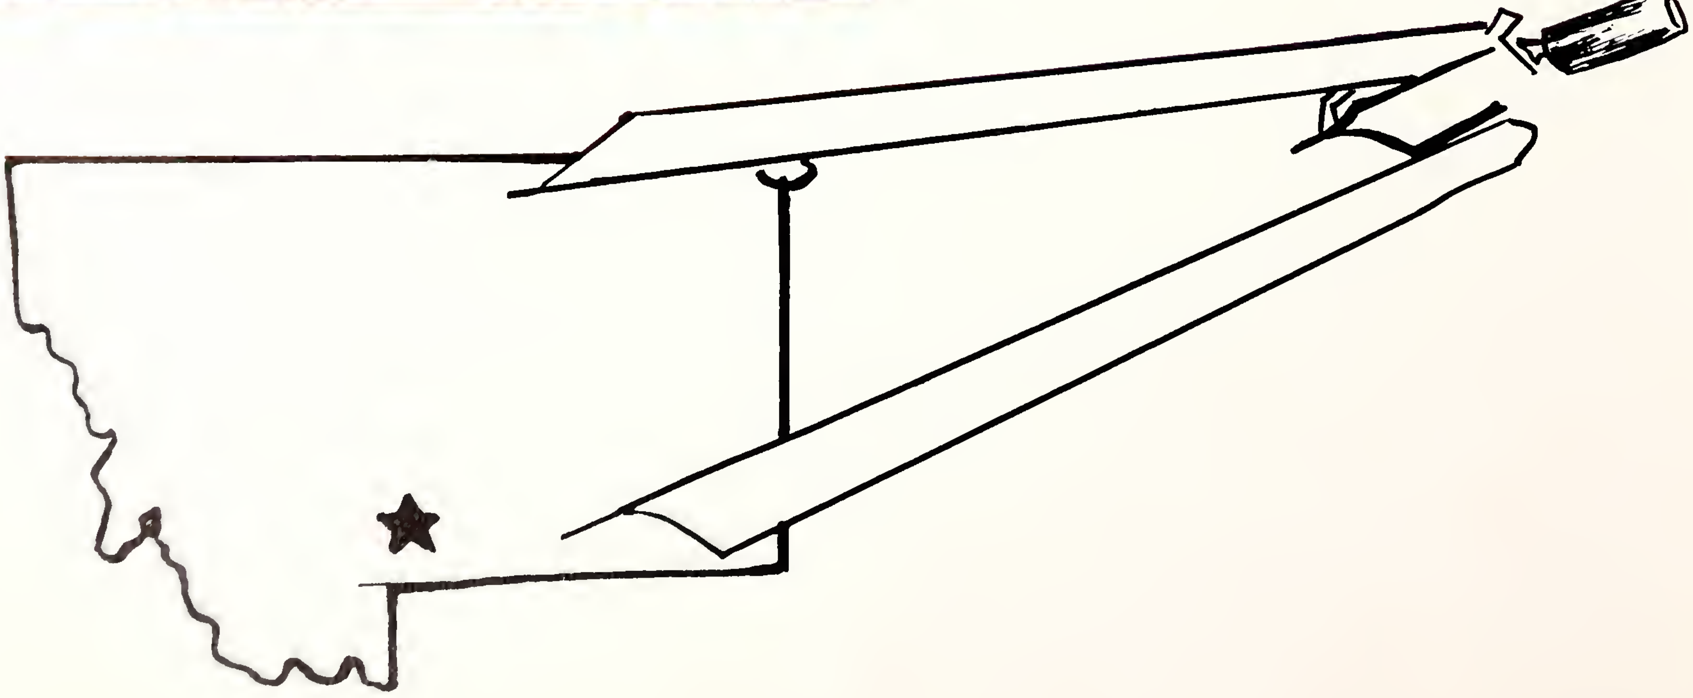
C

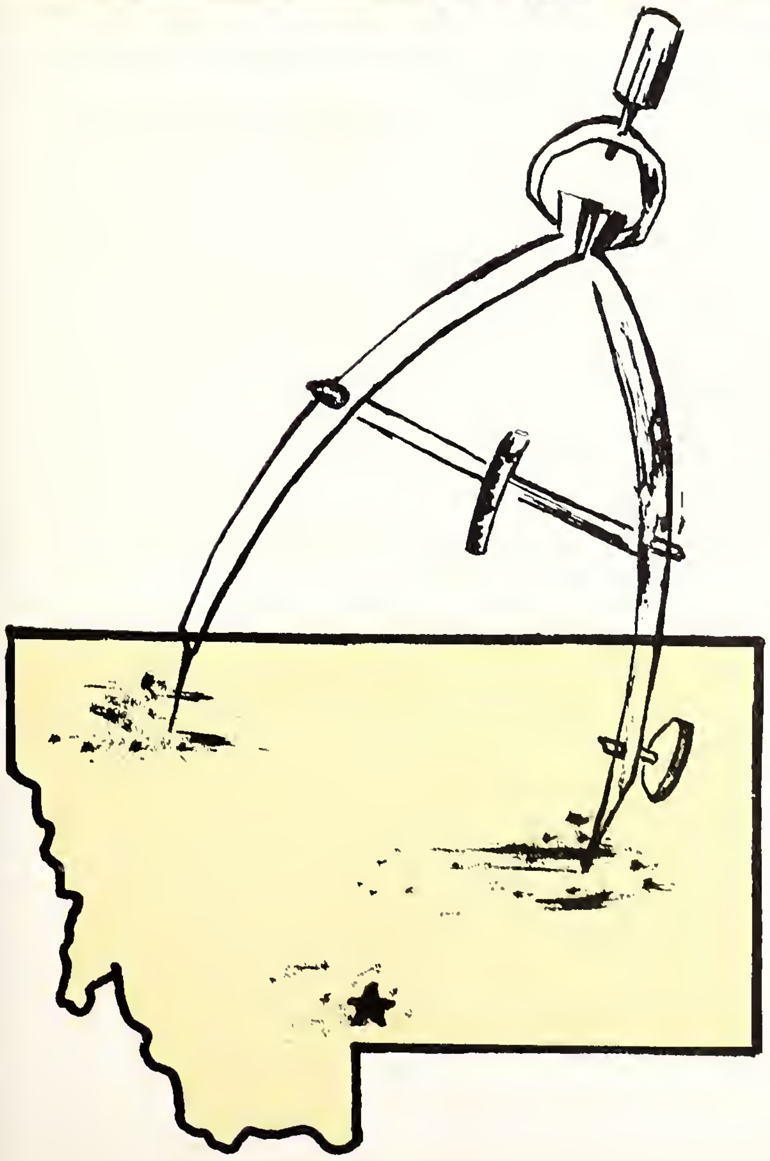




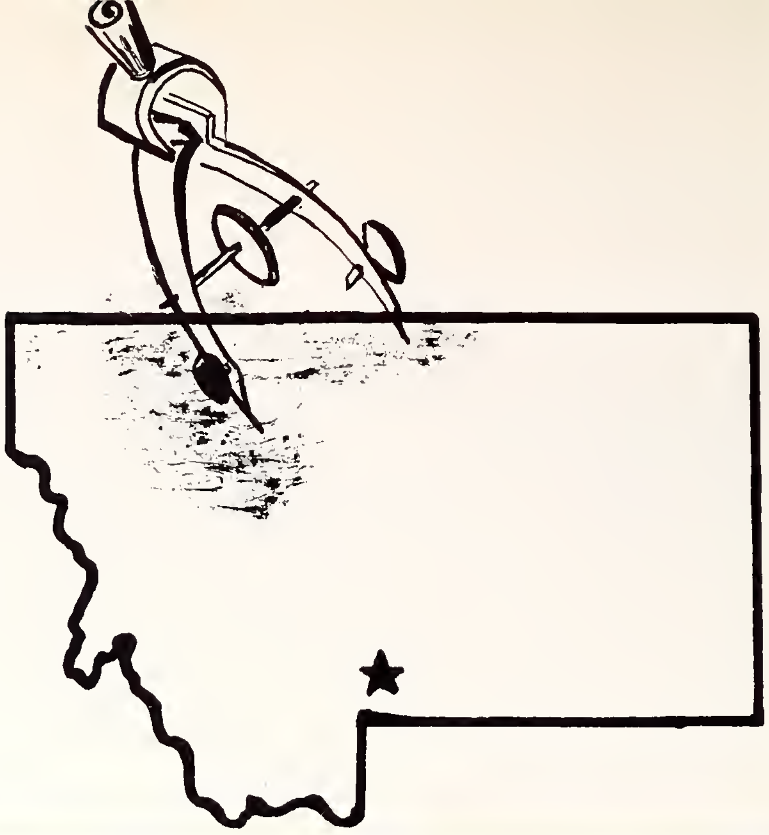
With the aid of an adequate education, one can attain as high a degree of success as he desires. Montana State serves as the foundation from which a student can develop his potential to the fullest. The scholastic program at M.S.C. is designed to progress from the introductory courses of the freshman year to the high-level courses of graduate work.

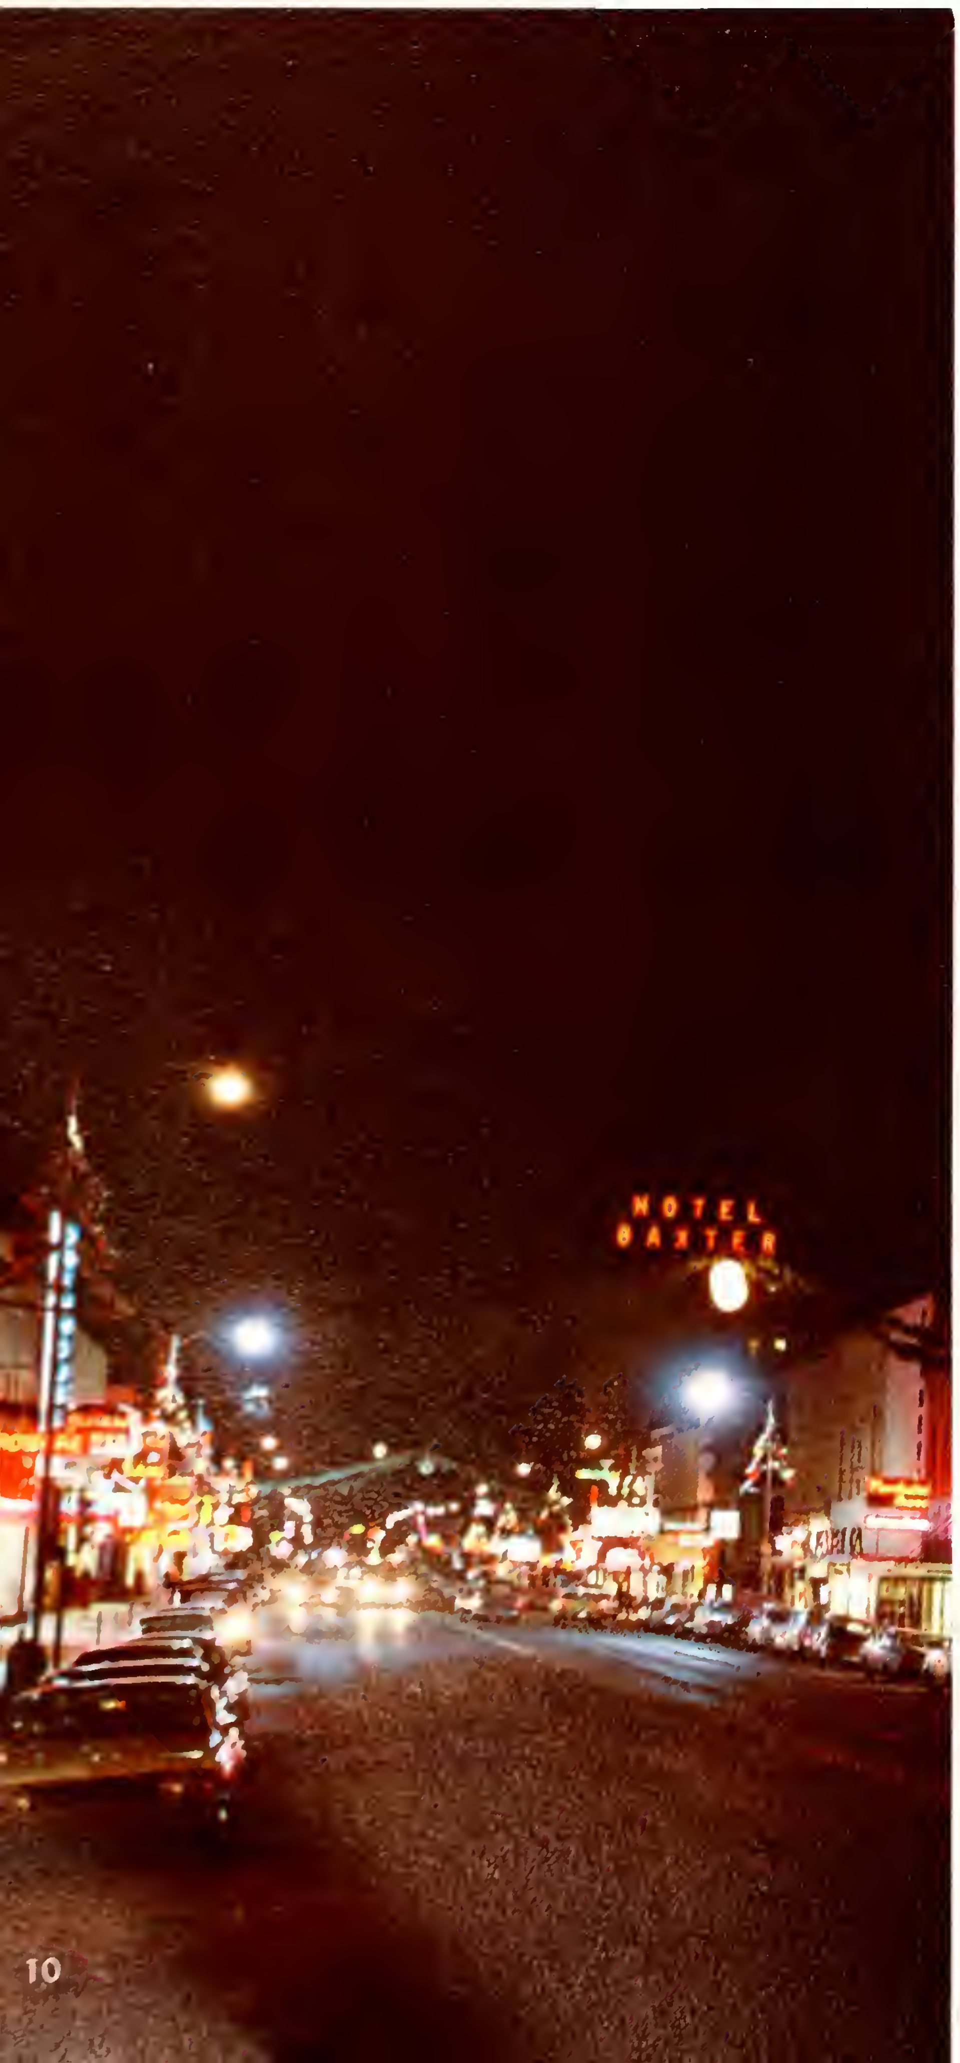
the HEIGHT . . .

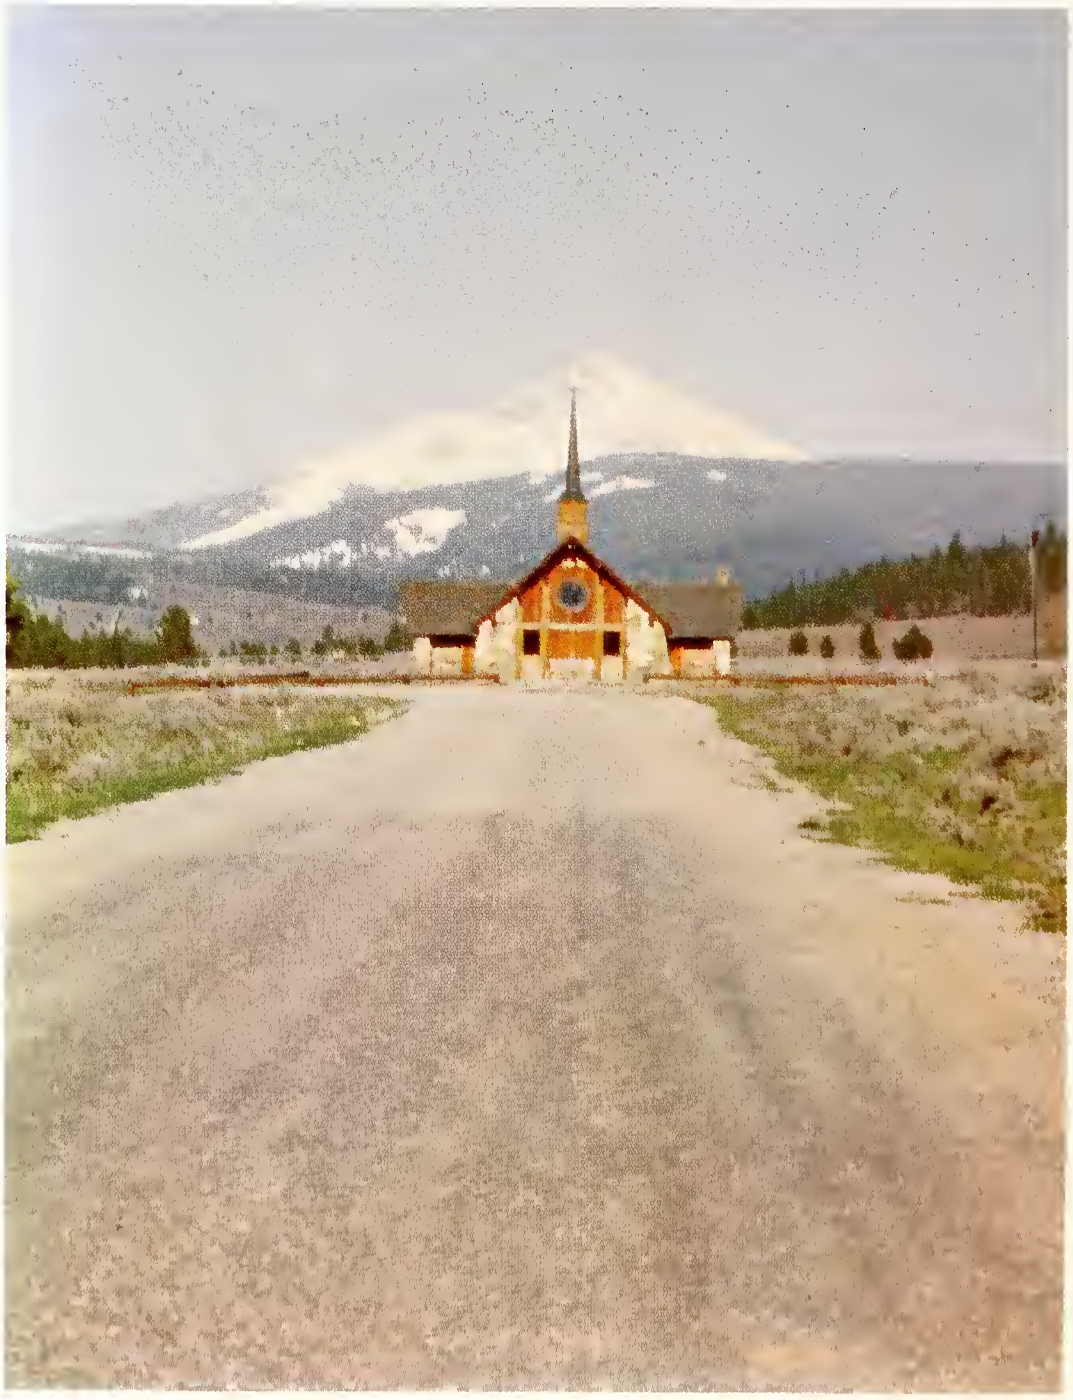
BREADTH . . .



Students at MSC not only receive extensive training in their chosen fields, but an exposure to many subjects. It is this broad education that helps one attain a satisfactory understanding of the universe and enables him to contribute to society. A great expanse of knowledge can be obtained at Montana State College. In addition to scholastic training, a student gains knowledge of social practices which aid in achieving the goal of proper adjustment. In this respect, the breadth of a college education is as important as either the height or depth of one's learning. Today's world requires that each and every individual be able to function not only by himself, but with society as a whole.

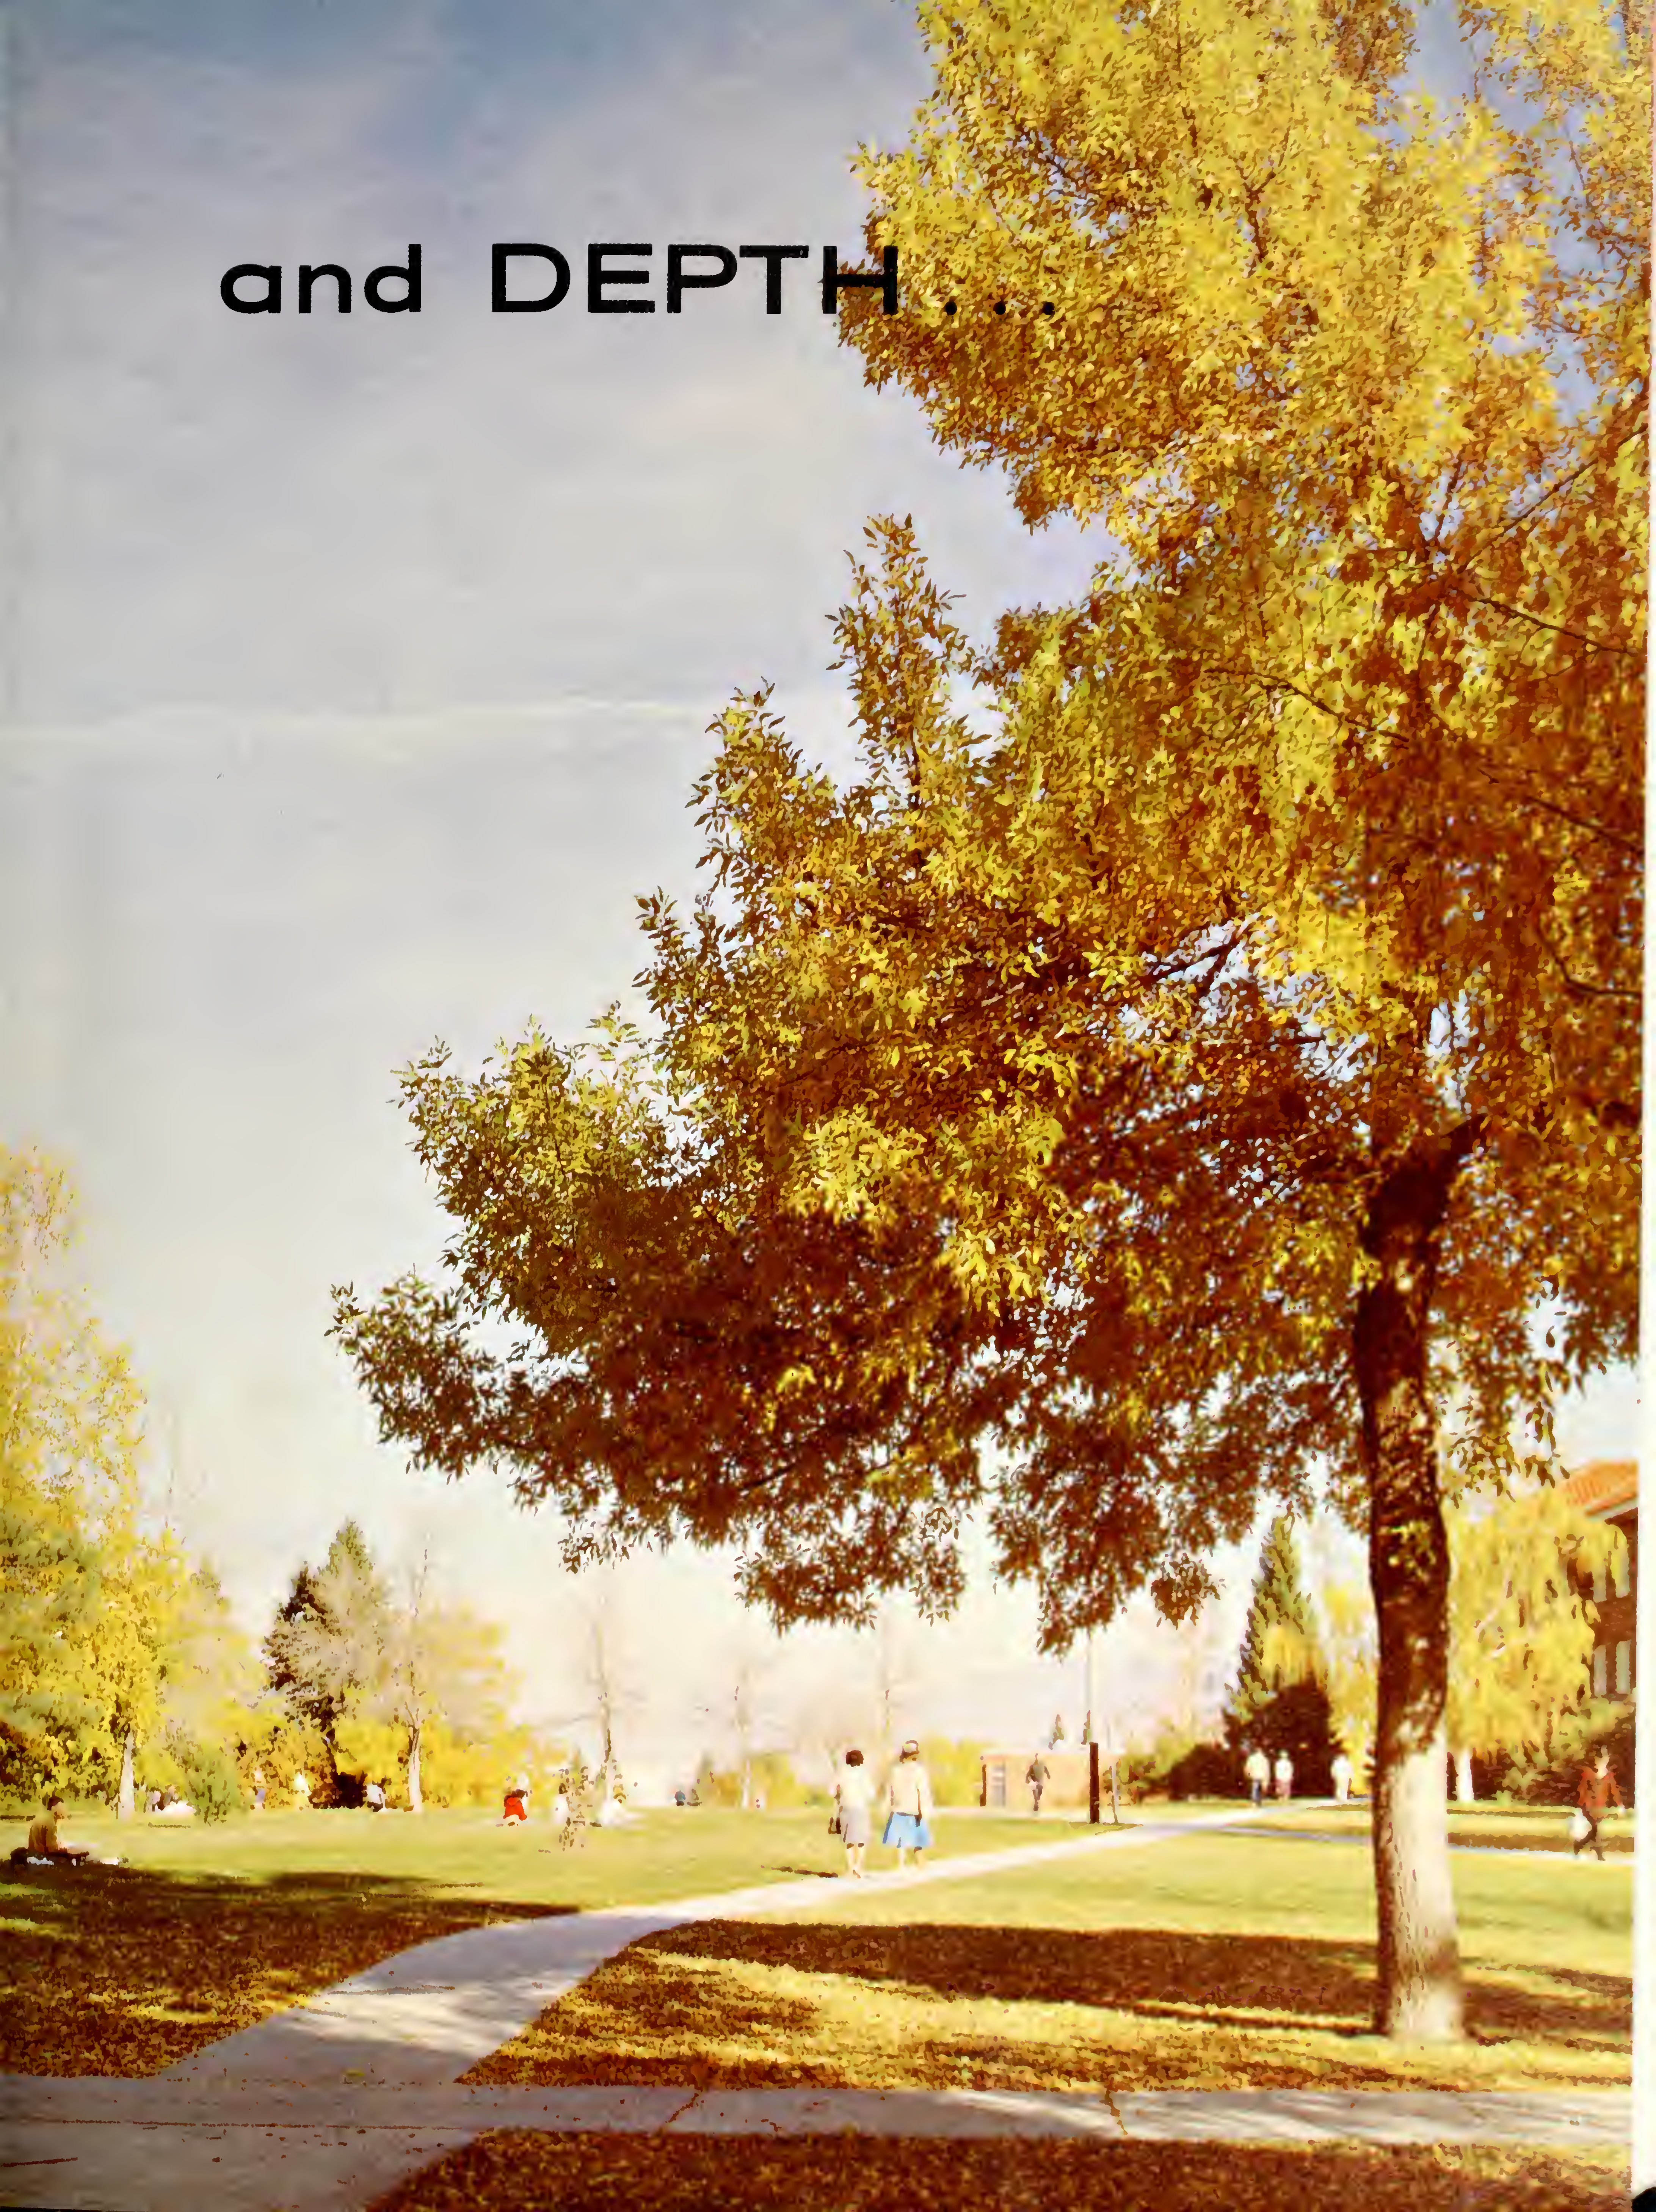


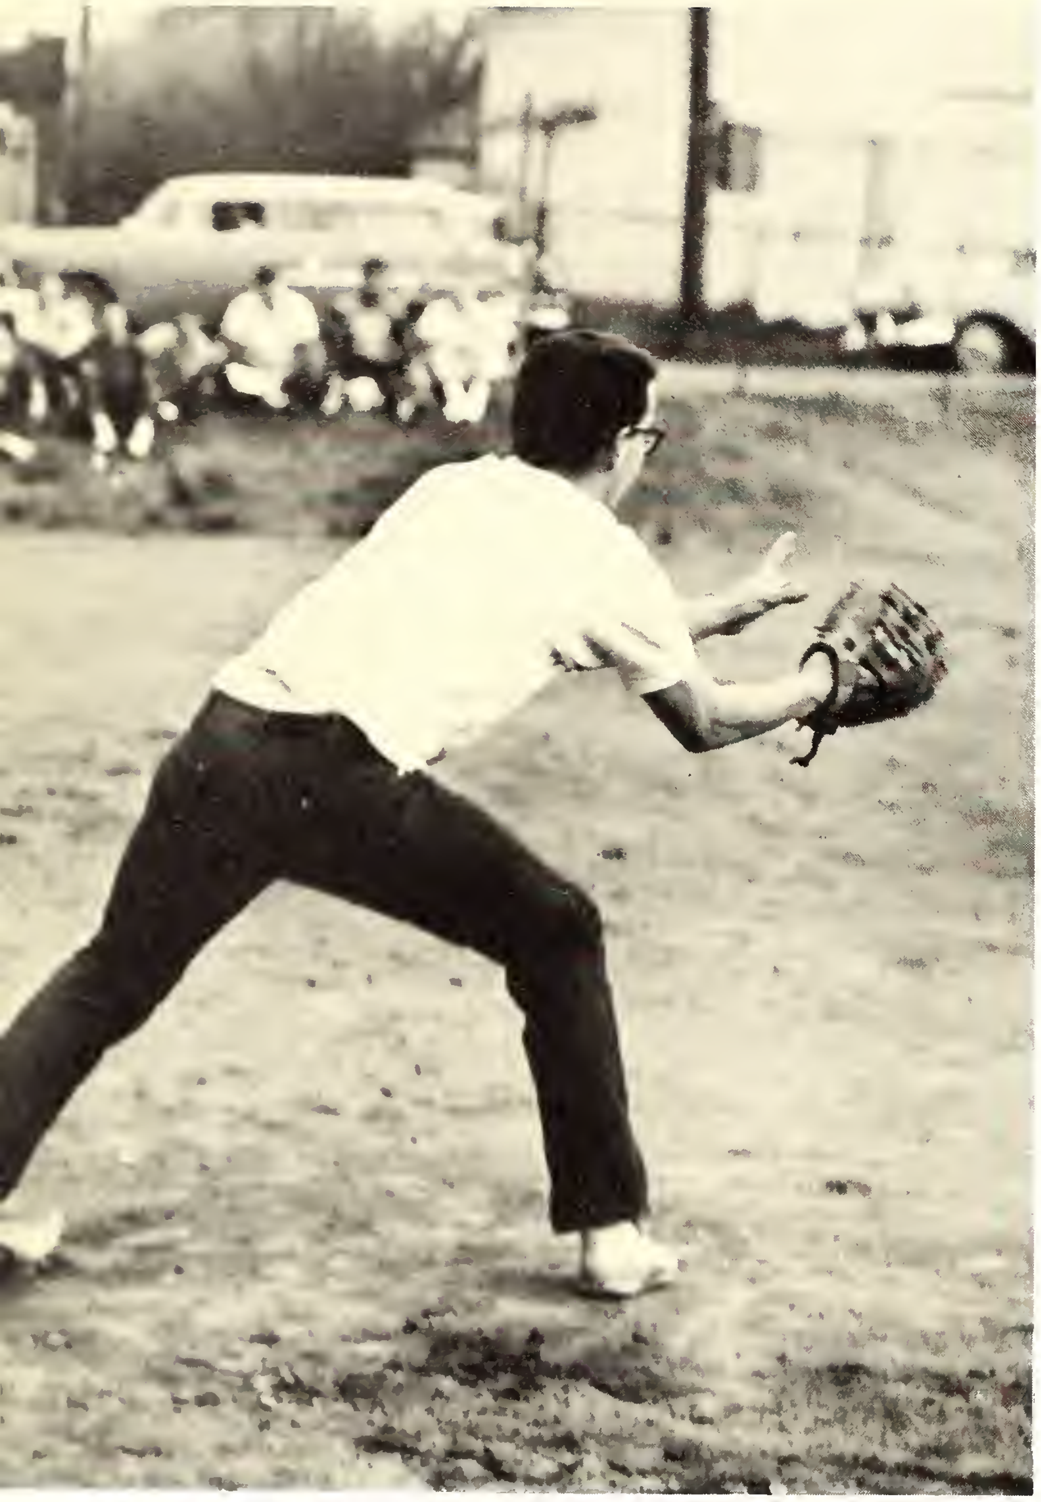




Montana State College possesses the equipment and qualified instructors with which students can work to gain the most extensive knowledge of their specific field. Delving into the vast amount of available material complements the knowledge of a student, who in turn, often adds something of value to the world in which he lives. Throughout his college life, a student is constantly working toward a deeper understanding of the work involved in his future career.

and DEPTH . . .





Every experience one encounters while at college enlarges the over-all prospective of the student. Each course taken, each new friend made, each activity in which a student participates, adds to and betters his understanding of life. This is the purpose of an education — to answer the whys and hows of life. The knowledge acquired at Montana State College can serve as a point of departure from which students can grow to understand society and become a worthwhile member of that society.

President Johnson

There are dimensions in education just as there are in most of the physical things we observe and experience. An education should open new vistas and lead to new aspirations and ambitions. Perhaps the pre-eminent purpose of an education is to set man free — to make him a master of his environment and of his destiny. This upward thrust of man through the generations to break the shackles of ignorance and superstition is the manifestation of height in education. But if man is to be free he must understand his role as an individual in humanity's total effort. No individual nor single endeavor of man can be isolated from the main stream of life. To find fulfillment in our life we must see it in the broadest scope. This is the dimension of breadth. Superficiality is the dread enemy of knowledge. True under standing comes only after the basic concepts and theories of any discipline have been mastered. Perhaps Alexander Pope expressed best the need for depth of understanding when he wrote: "A little learning is a dangerous thing; Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian springs. Their shallow draughts intoxicate the brain, And drinking largely sobers us again."

Campus publications are the mode by which student opinion and reactions are made manifest.

The publications regularly inform students of items of general interest. The yearbook provides students a chance to reflect on past activities.

Those students who work on the publications learn to accept responsibility and to work with other people in producing a valuable newspaper, magazine, or yearbook.

Exponent

The Exponent, plagued with numerous changes of editorship and staff in the last two years, has managed to make it out every Friday through the heroic efforts of a skeleton staff. Although the quality of the journalism has seriously declined since the All-American issues of Gerald Calloway, we can give this hard-working crew credit for perseverance. However, the outlook for the future is bright as things can only get better. One thing that can be said is that the office is well equipped with new furnishings and equipment thanks to the helping (and sometimes unseen) hand of J. Bruce Anderson.

Apropos

The satire machine in action.

What Roskie doesn't know won't hurt him.

Steve Chesarek
Associate Editor

Peggy Flynn
Art Editor

Newest publication on the campus scene is the Apropos, a general magazine which replaces several specialized magazines. Under the editorship of Lee Myers, its first issues have given indication that it will fill a large gap in campus reading material. Scheduled for publication twice quarterly, the Apropos provides an outlet for student art and literary work, informative articles of interest to the college student, and a forum for new ideas. Its format allows for in-depth articles of a quality and nature beyond the scope of the Exponent.

This year's issues included a wide range of subjects ranging from satire on Homecoming and REW to re-apportionment and athletic scholarships, as well as outstanding student artwork, poetry and short stories. Next year should see the Apropos expanding size and subject matter as the first-year wrinkles of publication are ironed out.

Apropos

At that rate it's no wonder that. . . .

there wasn't an Apropos each quarter.

Some think, talk, live, act and work theatre, others participate to a lesser degree. Some spend every free minute either in the theatre or in the shop. Many others drop in occasionally between classes or during a free hour. Most all find the occasion to take their part as members of the audience which is so important to the performing arts. Performers and audience have worked together this year to create an overall successful atmosphere for the theatre season 64-65. The play bill has included farce, Greek tragedy, fantasy, Shakespearean comedy, and a spirited musical. Students, professors and townspeople have all helped to complete casting for the productions. Readers' Theatre has contributed two presentations this year. Changes and advancements have taken place in the realm of dramatics. A constantly moving area of college life, plans for next season are already being formulated.

Dramatics

A set to be proud of for "Arsenic."

"Arsenic and Old Lace"

This year's freshman production was a farce involving two sweet old ladies who take delight in poisoning old gentlemen. Directed by Ted Hippely and designed by Ed Thompson, this play had parts for many incoming freshman and a few new transfer students. Working on the production crews or acting in the roles gave these new students ample opportunity to meet each other and upperclassmen also interested in dramatics. This presentation was well received and started the year successfully.

That darned boat can't charge San Juan Hill.

Men, I want you to understand how important the force is, especially in a small college town.

Quick repair job by Marty during an intermission.

Family portrait — mother, wife, son, husband, uncle and brother. Oh, and brother-in-law too.

"Oedipus"

"Oedipus," the major fall production, played before audiences which were quite receptive. The story of a man who through his own strength of character discovers he has murdered his father and married his mother, it came to life with the acting of Clayton Horan, Rusty Layton, Mike McGuire and Joe Wigley. Done on an expressionistic set designed by Ted Hippely, it was directed by Ben Tone. A compilation of talent, the cast included students, townspeople and instructors.

The run of a play isn't over until the set is struck.

"Come with you to WHERE?"

Winter Quarter

During Winter Quarter, the Theatre Department produced "Everyman" a Reader's Theatre for REW. The sixth annual Children's show was "Alice in Wonderland" directed by Gwen Shular and sponsored by Alpha Psi Omega Dramatics Honorary. Carole Richardson portrayed Alice with a fine supporting cast. A fantasy story, it was enjoyed by students as well as the many Bozeman children who came to see it.

But I thought you were bringing the tea!

"Twelfth Night"

The major production of Winter Quarter was a Shakespearean comedy — "Twelfth Night." Directed by Ben Tone, designed by Ted Hippely and Ken Vannice, scored by Joan Steele, it was a great success. Playing before full houses every night of production, it was a real tribute to what can be done through hard work and extensive time. A special reusable set background was constructed, authentic in every possible way. Music on the instruments of Shakespeare's time, including a harpsichord, was a special addition to the realism.

You'll have to go barefoot — with that crazy hat you're too tall.

You're sure? ? It's leprosy? ?

But then, if I were a man and you were a man — that wouldn't solve it either.

MSC varsity debaters have finished another of a long series of successful seasons of competition in coast-to-coast tournaments.

Seniors Jim Goetz and Gerry Neely attended the First Annual James Madison Invitational at Princeton University. The entire varsity squad competed in four west coast tournaments: the First Annual Husky Tournament at the University of Washington, the West Point Eliminations at Pacific University, the Tournament of Champions at Linfield College, and the Pi Kappa Delta National Championship Tournament and Convention at Pacific Lutheran University.

The squad also participated in several state and regional contests such as that sponsored by the Western Speech Association, the Rocky Mountain Forensics League Tournament, MSU's Big Sky Tournament and the State Championships. An example of our strength was shown at the Yellowstone Valley Tourney where MSC won the Sweepstakes. Debaters Neely, Goetz and Eck took first, second and third respectively in the individual debate. The teams of Neely-Goetz and Eck-Clavadetscher took first and second in team debate. Neely, Eck and Clavadetscher were finalists in Extemporaneous Speech, with Neely and Eck taking second and third.

Forensics

Forensics

As in the past, Professor L. A. Lawrence's teams have compiled an impressive record, maintaining our status as one of the "Top 10" debate schools in the nation. The teams won more than fifteen trophies this year. An active program for the junior debaters included participation on the regular trips and a special practice trip to Billings. Debaters contribute to the campus and town by their frequent appearances as speakers for meetings and in their popular demonstration debates for groups throughout the Gallatin Valley and throughout the year. Participation in "The art of Persuasion, Beautiful and Just" is on a voluntary basis, and newcomers are always welcomed at the traditional Thursday night meetings in Montana Hall.

John Robinson, Commissioner of Forensics gives a new debater some pointers.

Sure are a lot of trophies — now where in heck are we going to put them? ?

All right. All together on the downbeat.

All right, then it's settled — Neely will walk and carry the luggage.

THERN PACIF

The team will never guess I gave them the slip until they get my card from Florida.

Whether it is present in a conscious form or it is an added feature of the background or atmosphere, music is important — important to our campus, important to our activities. There is music for the formal and sedate occasions such as banquets and the president's assembly. There is music at the hootenanies in the Sub, the dances in the ballroom, be they formal or mung. Music plays its part in spurring on the teams and in leading the crowd's cheers. Sometimes the music is organized and college sponsored. Other times it is impromptu and just for the fun of it — as in the dorm around the piano. Ever present — from the first assembly of the freshman year right through to the recessional at graduation — music is part of the campus life. It bids us welcome, it bids us farewell. "Fling wide our colors bright and true Sunlight gold and ether blue. . . ."

Music

Chorale

The Montana State Chorale is composed of students who are chosen by the Director, Dan Nelson for their voice quality and musical ability. Practicing three times a week, they prepare for their concerts which are presented for the student body. This year with the MSC Chorus they presented a Christmas concert of Handel's "Messiah" for the people of Bozeman. At the beginning of spring break the Chorale toured the western part of the state and sang at several high schools.

Dan Nelson
Director

Montanans

The peak of organized vocal music on the campus of Montana State, the Montanans is formed of the best individual voices available. Distinctive in their white dinner jackets and blue dresses, the group performs at formal occasions on the campus and downtown. The group has no pattern of music that they sing. They can and do sing in every vein of music written, be it classical, jazz or spiritual. They have concerts throughout the state and have really done a fine job of representing Montana State.

Marching Band

The marching band is that group of students which serves the other students and the townspeople by bringing increased spirit to the Bobcat games. At the football games, they not only play the fight songs and other cheer rhythms, but also perform on the field during half-times. Formations are worked out and practiced by the band members so that they can provide the excellent half-time entertainment that they do. The Bobcat Marching Band also takes part in the downtown parades on occasions such as Homecoming and Armed Forces Day. They, too, represent MSC well.

Symphonic Band

Edmund Sedivy
Director

Playing at assemblies, the Symphonic Band has acquired a fine reputation. They give a formal president's concert each year and also sometimes take part in concerts which combine the talents of the Chorale and the band. Perhaps the last of the MSC Music groups to come in contact with the graduating student, they prepare and provide music for graduation exercises. The Symphonic Band toured the eastern part of the state during spring break as an ambassador group from our student body.

Members of judging teams travel to many fairs, conventions, and livestock shows to represent Montana State in judging contests. The members of the judging teams gain much practical experience other than that provided by the competitive nature of the contests they enter. Courses in judging are taught so the students may gain experience and knowledge in judging. These courses and the experience gained are important assets to agricultural majors. However, any student may apply for a team.

Septemviri

Seven outstanding members of the Senior Class are chosen each year by a faculty committee to be in Septemviri. They are easily recognized on campus by their distinctive grey blazers. Instrumental in upholding such timeless traditions as the freshman beanie and the annual president's assembly each fall, they also sell freshman and homecoming buttons. Septemviri is truly symbolic of the college man's desires—scholarship, leadership, service and playing the role.

Scholarship, leadership, and service are the qualities depicting the Mortar Board members. During the year these active coeds keep themselves doubly busy with the many Mortar Board activities. An engineering honorary, Tau Beta Pi's main goal is to develop a better relationship between students and faculty. An outstanding scholastic average is the primary requirement for membership. The honorary encourages academic achievements and provides opportunities for members to improve themselves.

Miss Wool of Montana

Judy Goyins won the title of Miss Wool of Montana for 1965 at the state pageant held in Bozeman, Montana. Miss Goyins was judged in a bathing suit, wool suit, and floor length formal, before she gained the coveted title.

Judy attended the National Miss Wool of America Pageant in April in San Angelo, Texas, along with twenty other lovely and talented young ladies representing all areas of the U.S. The Montana Wool Grower's Association presented Miss Goyins her crown, trophy, roses, wool suit, and trip to Texas.

Judy is a sophomore from Stanford, Montana, and is a member of the Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority.

Although our nation has the largest complex of military machinery in the world, and although the majority of this equipment is of the push-button variety, we must still have qualified, competent, and well-trained military men to maintain and operate this gigantic complex. The complexity of our modern military equipment calls for an extensive education heretofore unheard of in the annals of military history. A major portion of an officer's time is spent in the pursuit of knowledge. The ROTC officer is well equipped for academic pursuits long before he enters military service. He leaves college to defend our country armed with an ability to develop the brain-power to operate our military complex.

Air Force

In these troubled times it is easy to see the necessity for a strong deterrent force to crush any threat to our security or that of our allies. A great many of the officers needed to man this massive force come from AFROTC programs similar to the one here at MSC. These officers learn not only their role as an officer but also pursue the education for which they come.

The Air Force drill team exibits its snappy drill.

Army

The fighting man in our modern day army is of high caliber and the officers that lead them must be of an even higher quality. Army ROTC students at MSC must exibit an aptitude for leadership in their pursuit of the bars of a second lieutenant. The courses are designed to bring forth the qualities desired in an Army officer.

The Angels closely followed by a modern fighter.

Phyllis Hess receives another award for the Angels.

The Angel Flight demonstrates its superb forms.

Angel Flight

The Angel Flight of MSC makes a charming and beautiful addition to the campus. These girls are chosen on the basis of personal appearance and marching ability. Many long hours are spent in the SUB ballroom practicing their precision movements. They are sponsored by Arnold Air Society and can be easily seen among the multitude of students in their blue uniforms. The Angels have captured honors on the drill field for the department and the college. The Angels spend the winter months perfecting their snappy maneuvers and in the spring compete in various meets as well as performing exhibition drills around the state. Their campus activities also include serving as hostesses and guides during High School Week.

Somehow squeezed into a student's busy schedule are the multitude of activities offered by the clubs on campus. These are organizations which cover all facets of student activities from flying to religion. Clubs with departmental affiliations offer the members a chance to view and discuss new advancements outside of the classroom. Many of the clubs sponsor campus activities such as mixers as well as activities within their own fields. The student, as has been said time and time again, must grow socially as well as academically and these MSC organizations provide a nucleus of activities outside of the purely social and academic vein to foster this growth. Many of our student officers have gotten their start in these groups as officers.

At last the rain stopped.

The Independent Students' Association is the organization designed to give social and political opportunity to all unaffiliated students on the MSC campus. The members participate in campus politics, in campus social activities and in campus welfare and other projects. Participation in the National Independent Students' Association also constitutes an activity of ISA, who sponsored last year's NISA convention. ISA welcomes all unaffiliated students to join and benefit from contribution to one of MSC's growing organizations.

Providing room, board, and social life for the independent men on campus is the purpose of the Men's Co-op. Membership in this organization gives students an opportunity to acquire social skills, leadership abilities, and affords the chance to meet other students in a friendly, relaxed atmosphere. The men at the Co-op, working together with spirit and good will, take an active interest in campus activities and projects.

No student on campus will graduate who has not at least heard of athletics or sports. Montana State College has turned out many fine athletes as well as Nationally ranked teams. In the last five years the coaching staffs have created a winning tradition at MSC. In the last two years, students have witnessed Championship Bobcat teams in football, basketball, and wrestling. In this respect, sports have formed a portion of every student's life, in that MSC is proud of its athletic teams and their accomplishments.

Football

The Bobcats returned to the gridiron to attain one goal — the Big Sky Championship — which eluded them last season. With Little All-American players, Gary Decolati, Dave Miller, and Terry Albrecht heading them, the team not only won the trophy, but the right to play in the Camellia Bowl against a West Coast power, Sacramento State. The coaching staff and the squad worked hard for their reward and with seven players selected for the All-Conference team, Montana State College proved to be the "team to beat" in the Big Sky Conference.

Coach George Marinkovich, one of the best frosh coaches in this part of the country, once again developed outstanding potential players for next year's varsity. Although the Kittens won only one game, the freshmen learned the fundamentals in a way in which they will not forget. Some spectators look only at the scoreboard — freshmen at Montana State College rarely look impressive as frosh, but give them a year on the varsity after such experience and — Conference champions!

Athletic contests must have controlled cheering and enthusiasm. No matter where it is held, somebody must accept that responsibility of organizing the student body. It is the duty of the cheerleaders in organizing and leading the student body mass into an effective unit. Led this year by cheerqueen, Bonne Bruckner, the cheerleaders have added much to the life of Montana State College and its teams.

Basketball

The Bobcat cage squad once again showed its dust to some fellow conference teams as it demonstrated a lethal attack. Led by forwards Kermit Young and Don Rae, and center, Bob Gustafson, the Cats demonstrated their power and ability to win, in the first week of the season. Portland State fell 97-43 as the Cats poured points through the net. Against Southern Colorado State, Bill Gillespie and Gustafson took the reins and led the team to an 82-81 overtime victory. The Bobcats led only at the first of the game and during the overtime. This year's cage team has to be placed alongside the all-star teams of the past. Coach Craft and his staff did an outstanding job of building the team.

Bobkittens

Starting off very slowly, the Bobkittens finished strong with a promising group ready to battle for starting berths on next year's varsity. Under the watchful eyes of Gerald Stockton, the frosh gained invaluable know-how in the methods and techniques of college basketball. Having a couple of tall players, Coach Stockton was often pleased not only with their performances, but with their rapid development as well. Combined with the returnees of this year's varsity, Coach Roger Craft should easily have a team that he can, "look up to." This season's freshmen should help the Bobcats recapture the Big Sky crown which they lost this year.

Wrestling

Under the direction of sophomore coach, Herb Agocs, the grapplers took their second straight Big Sky Conference title. Led by Kershner, Lockwood, and McIntyre, the Cats continued their undefeated dual meet winning streak — extending it to two years! Throughout the season, the muscle men showed the way to the conference crown, capping it by qualifying Kent, Jim, and Bob, for the NCAA national wrestling championships. Though the Bobcats seemed to have lost the entire squad of last year's undefeated team, Coach Agocs was able to find the needed strength in sophomores and juniors, making the possibilities of a title next year even more of a reality.

Skiing

By taking second place in the Big Sky Conference for the second year running, the Bobcat skiers proved themselves a hard to beat team. Coached by the "versatile" Bob Beck, the snow-bunnies ran up many wins, but just could not manage to "get over the hump" in the conference championships. Carrying only upperclassmen on the squad deprived the Bobcats of possibly a better showing; next year the graduating members will be replaced by well-experienced skiers from this year's frosh squad.

Track

Under a new coach, Jerry Stubblefield, the Bobcat thinclads showed the conference the ability and potentiality which its young members have. Coaching his first college track team, Stubblefield directed his cindermen to a third place finish in the largest MSC Indoor Invitational Track Meet. Since that first meet the Cats have pushed all of their conference foes in meets. Consisting mostly of sophomores and juniors, the Bobcat squad could be the 1966-67 Big Sky Champions.

Opening their season with their usual spring training swing through California, the diamondmen came back to open regular season play by sweeping their first four contests to raise their overall record to 6-4. After his first losing season as MSC baseball mentor, George Marinkovich, doesn't intend on making it two in a row. With a strong fielding team and top-flight hurlers in Gary Keeter and Gary Richards, the Cats clawed many a foe into submission.

Tennis

Surprising many net fans by defeating arch-rival MSU for the first time since beginning competition. Coach Davis' team gave many a Big Sky team a headache in competition. This year definitely was the best for any Montana State net team. As with the track squad, the team is largely carried by underclassmen giving Davis an excellent nucleus for next year's tennis squad.

"All aboard for the Spud State."

Golf

Although not what one might call All-Americans, Bob Beck's turf clubbers turned in excellent performances in many of their meets. Practicing at both of Bozeman's fine golf courses enabled the team to take advantage of any good weather. From their opening meet in Idaho, through to the Conference championships, the golfers from MSC proved to be one of the best under Beck's coaching.

Rifle

One of the brightest spots in MSC athletics is the men's and women's rifle teams. Evidence of the ability possessed by some of these marksmen can be found in the last Olympic competition at Tokyo. Lones Wigger's gold medal came in the three position small bore shooting, while his silver medal came in the small bore prone competition. With such an outstanding shooter as this, the forthcoming rifle teams will have much to work for in continuing their domination over the many nationally ranked teams.

In the women's competition, the Chi O's A O Pi's, and Hapner Hall always provide thrills for any spectator. Panhellenic Council

The Panhellenic Council is composed of representatives from each of our six national sororities, and it is the purpose of this group to compile rules governing rushing, pledging, and initiation. Panhellenic strives to cooperate with college authorities in their efforts to maintain high cultural, educational, and social standards for sorority women. The Council is kept busy throughout the year with formal fall rush, Greek Week, and a banquet for girls attending High School Week. Two scholarships — the Panhellenic Scholarship, which is awarded to a woman student at MSC, and the MSC Panhellenic Scholarship which goes to the top ranking girl in High School Week Testing — are presented annually by the Council. The successful programs and policies of this group have gained it the praise of national visitors and college administrators.

Interfraternity Council

Interfraternity Council is the governing body for the fraternities on campus. Membership is composed of two representatives from each house. IFC is designed to promote cooperation and understanding among the ten fraternities. It works with the sororities through Panhellenic Council in establishing Greek policies. IFC awards a trophy to the house having the highest grades each quarter as a means of scholastic encouragement. Cultural programs, intramural events, campus politics, and Greek Week are other areas of business for IFC.

This year Alpha Gamma Rho was very active on the MSC campus. AGR's headed such groups as Rodeo Club, Ag Club, Chaff and Dust, Range Management, Young Democrats, Civil Engineers, Alpha Zeta, The Montanan, Little I, and many other campus groups. Alpha Delta had active members in Fangs, Phi Eta Sigma, and M Club. For their Christmas celebration, the AGR's planned and held a party for 35 underprivileged children from the Bozeman area. This was a very worthwhile project and was enjoyed by all. Two AGR's placed on Who's Who in American Colleges. Scholarship was not overlooked as AGR's placed high among Fraternity Scholastic competition.

Alpha Omicron Pi

Many honors were bestowed upon the AOPi's this year at their big brick house at the corner of South Fifth. Individual achievements included Commander of Angel Flight, Mortar Board, Who's Who, Pompon girls, Spurs, Homecoming Queen, Cheer Queen and several fraternity queens. The girls in the bright red jackets kept themselves busy all year with their many fraternity functions.

The "Spooks" have once again completed a year highlighted by success in scholarship, intramurals, songfests and social functions. The magnificent Stardust Ball overshadowed all other Kappa Sigma activities, while the traditional French Fireside was equally successful. Kappa Sigma, in endeavoring to produce well-rounded men, has again proven itself by placing high in scholarship, and having members in most campus organizations.

The Chi O's started off an exciting and varied list of activities when the pledges won permanent claim to the Sigma Chi Derby Trophy. Chi O's have been active in both campus queen contests and scholastic honoraries. Some of these are Mortar Board, Angel Flight, Spurs, Who's Who, and class offices. Overall trophy for Winter Carnival and several fraternity queens rated among Chi Omega honors. Many functions with fraternities and other campus activities helped produce a sisterhood not soon to be forgotten.

This year the Lambda Chi's faced the rough job of rebuilding their ranks, depleted by a graduating class of 22 the spring before. They were successful, as they brought their pledge class up to 45 men, 14 of whom were eligible to go active winter quarter. Their social schedule throughout the year included their legendary Yukon Days fall party, the Spring Party, and the White Rose Formal winter quarter. Myrna Mangis of Alpha Gamma Delta was crowned Crescent Girl of the year. Lambda Chi's hold leadership positions in many of the campus organizations.

Delta Gamma

Everywhere on campus this year was evidence of Delta Gamma activity. Positions in student government held by Delta Gammas were Commissioner of Social Affairs, Freshman class treasurer, president of Pryor-Colter, social chairman of Hapner Hall, and Vice-President of Hannon Hall. Many other Delta Gammas could be found in Who's Who, Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Upsilon Omicron, and Phi Sigma. Delta Gamma proudly boasted of eight Spurs, and especially the fact that a Delta Gamma has been chosen Spur of the Moment for four consecutive years. Fraternity favorites included Pi Kapp Dream Girl and Harvest Ball Queen. The creation of Dino won first place in sorority snow sculpture competition. Needless to say, the DG's had a great year.

Phi Sigma Kappa began their year with a successful rush program. Following suit in Phi Sig tradition they placed second in the homecoming float contest. Socially the Phi Sigs held their annual Yard Party, Winter Party, Spring Party, and Moonlight Ball where Emily Toaves was crowned Moonlight Girl. On the hill Phi Sigs served as presidents of Septemveri and Interfraternity Council, co-chairmen of Miss Wool and Miss MSC pageants, and selected for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Thus, because of the fine spirit shown by these men, the Phi Sig's had an exciting year.

Kappa Delta

Another wonderful and eventful year began for the Kappa Deltas with a visit from their Province President during a successful fall rush. Once again the KD's proved themselves campus leaders with members participating in a variety of activities such as Spurs, International Club, and Dolphins. KD's served as President and Vice President of Junior and Senior Panhellenic respectively. KD's also claimed chairmanship of 1965 Women's Day and 1964 Homecoming. Highlights of the year were the traditional May Day Tea, the pledge breakfast and serenade, and White Rose Formal. Once again KD's won sorority competition in the blood drawing.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

During the past 46 years on campus, the SAE's have developed a great deal of pride in themselves and all things identified with them. This year the members have successfully shown their leadership abilities in Les Buffons, campus publications, varied honoraries, plus intramural and varsity athletics. Socially the SAE s can always remember the Halloween party for the neighborhood children, the P.J. Dance, plus many other impromptu functions. The future looks bright in view of building improvements and the new members.

The Pi Beta Phi's again proved themselves worthy leaders in campus activities. They received the second highest national award, the Stoolman Vase. The members were in Mortar Board, Alpha Lambda Delta, Spurs, Who's Who, and campus and residence hall officers. Other members can be found as Commissioner of Traditions, secretary of Student Senate, Co-Chairman of Religious Emphasis Week and High School Week, Angel Flight, cheerleaders, and many more. Ground breaking ceremonies were held in November for the new house. The Pi Phi's will move into their new home on South Fifth in the fall of 1965.

After a year of living in their new house the Pi Kap's feel at home at 1321 South Fifth Avenue. The brothers participated in many campus activities this year but there was time for Social activitives as well. This year's Pi Week effort was a huge success and realized more money from the sale of pies than in any previous year.

Sigma Chi

Sigma Chi, the oldest fraternity on campus, has truly been a leader this year. They follow the belief that success depends upon a balance derived from a diversification of minds and that a fraternity should develop character, personality, and self-control. After a very successful rush they showed their leadership in Homecoming and Student Government. Social highlights included impromptu sorority functions, firesides, the Sweetheart Ball, and Derby Days. Leadership in intramural sports plus a Christmas Party for needy children made a well-rounded year for the Sigma Chi's.

Sigma Nu

College activities, leadership, and service characterized the Sigma Nu Fraternity during this past successful year. The brothers can be found in Fangs, Who's Who, Septemviri, and other honoraries. The Sigma Nu's as a whole rated first scholastically, and as a public service they decorated downtown Bozeman and the rest home for the Christmas season.

This year has been a memorable one for the men of Sigma Phi Epsilon, for it marked the initiation of their one-hundredth member since receiving their charter in 1961. Sig Eps are active in campus activities, intramurals, and have established a high scholastic standing. The social year included various firesides, the annual Playboy Party, and was climaxed by the Queen of Hearts Ball.

Little Sisters of Minerva

Selected because of interest in the SAE Fraternity, outstanding character, and participation in campus affairs, the Little Sisters of Minerva were led this year by Toni Grunenfelfer. Members serve as cheerleaders, sorority presidents, Student Senate members, and are active on many campus boards and committees. Doing much to promote the fraternity on campus, the Little Sisters work as hostesses during Homecoming and the Mother's Day Banquet and conduct discussions on dating, dress, and etiquette for the pledges.

Division of Agriculture

The agriculture department at Montana State is one of the ever-expanding fields caught up in the sweep of modern technology. New methods of production in farming and livestock production will prepare those engaged in this field for the challenge of feeding the mouths of our ever increasing population.

Agriculture Business is a field that is also reaching new heights and the ag program at MSC is expanding to train qualified people to fill the need. A unified freshman year will prepare all ag students for their various fields of specialization in the other three years of their college career.

Division of Education

From the new-born of our vast nation comes a cry heard above all the rest — a cry to be educated. The days of brawn instead of brain are fading with the passing years and the advancement of the space age. Thousands of educators are needed to fill the rapidly expanding needs of these growing youngsters.

The education department at MSC provides the nucleus of education training for other fields on campus as well as its own five fields of Education, Film and Television, Health and Physical Education, Music and Psychology.

Division of Engineering

Behind everything from the vast complexity of the military machinery that defends our nation to the simplicity of a hypodermic needle to aid in the curing of our sick, we can find the helping hand of an engineer. In this age of ever expanding technology, the need for engineers to design and develop products to fill the needs of this expansion is fulfilled by schools like MSC.

MSC has one of the most comprehensive engineering departments of any college in the West. The divisions of Electrical, Mechanical, Civil, Industrial, and Chemical Engineering provide comprehensive studios in their own fields, and the basic sciences. The end product is an engineer with an understanding of problems within and related to his own field.

Division of Professional Schools

When you look around in any growing urban center, you can see modern architecture thrusting its way into the sky. This is the product of an Architect equipped with imagination and a college degree. Modern hospitals, designed by this same architect, are staffed with nurses, dieticians, and are managed by competent graduates of commerce. All these personnel are products of the Division of Professional Schools. The advertisements you see in print and the artwork that abounds throughout the land is sometimes the work of an industrious art major. The school of Art is perhaps one of the most controversial at MSC, for it is a breeding place for new and radical ideas.

Division of Letters and Science

The Division of Letters and Science encompasses the largest number of subjects of any division at MSC. It is the nucleus of general studies; offers degrees in Bacteriology, Chemistry, Math, Physics, and Zoology; and provides for studies in Botany, Earth Science, Fish and Wildlife, Pre-Med and others. Two new degrees added to the division are English and History.

This wide diversity makes this division one of the most important on campus, for within it are found the basic sciences upon which other fields such as engineering are built and also the humanities which have an equally important role of providing for a rounded education.

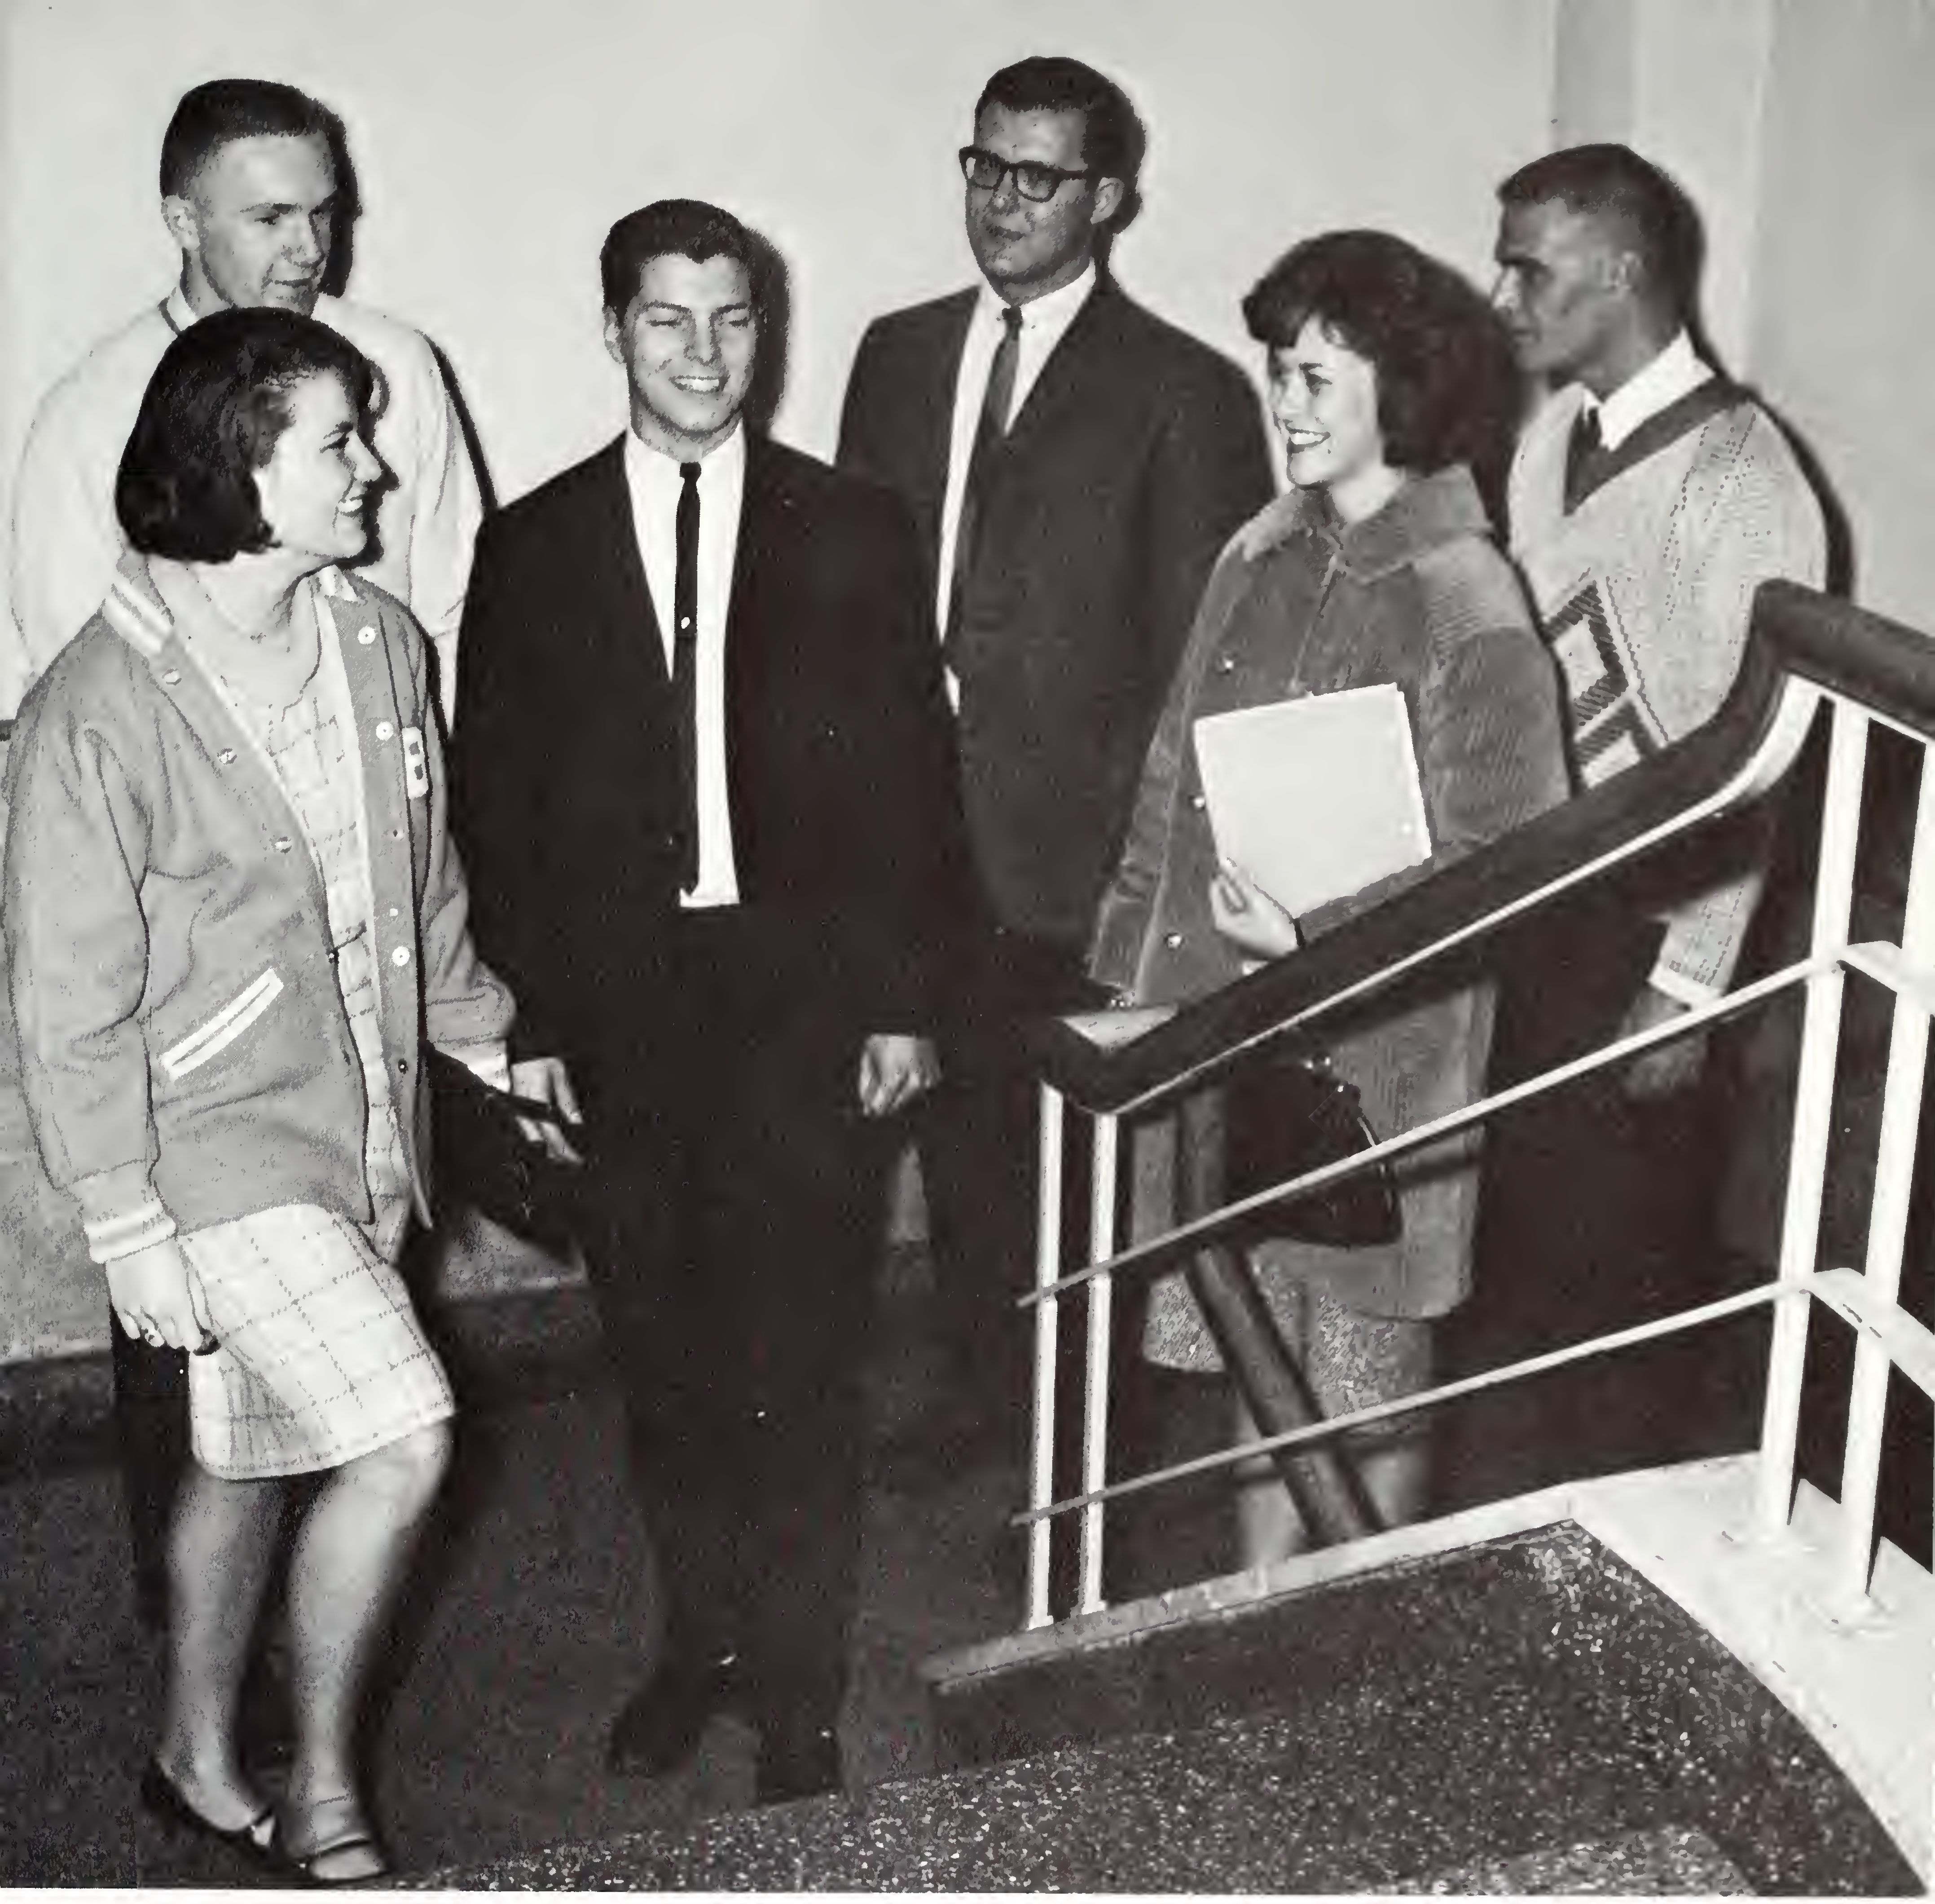
CLASS OF 1966

I am a junior. I have reached new heights of achievement that a year ago I thought were impossible. Now I will reach for even loftier heights. I have broadened my associations, contacts, and experiences. I am beginning to understand the height, breadth, and depth of the education that is provided for me and in the future shall comprehend these things to an even greater degree. Yes, I am a junior.



JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS — Edrea Matelich, Co-social Chairman; Terry Applebury, Co-social Chairman; Warren Bailey, Vice-President; Loren Vranish, President; Sharon Smith, Secretary; Gary Dyer, Treasurer.

CLASS OF 1967

Where am I going? What am I doing? What are the reasons for all of this? These are some of the questions a sophomore begins to ask himself as he draws himself to new heights of scholastic achievement. He broadens his knowledge through involvement in the never ending circle of campus affairs. He begins to set goals and ambitions and to find his place in the scope of events referred to as a college education.

CLASS OF 1968

The freshman glances back at his high school days which are now only a dimming memory, then looks forward to his bright new future caught up in an accelerated spiral of events and activities that he calls a college life. Beanies, Freshmen Week, classes, M-day, Greek rush, and club memberships are only a few of the many events and activities that are provided at Montana State to help the freshman build his education and future. The freshman with his vast spirit, enthusiasm, and energy can only hope to begin to realize the great height, breadth, and depth that can be attained in his education.

What is it that pushes the nurse onward and upward in one of the most rewarding careers known to mankind? Is it the security and responsibility of holding a position of importance and awe in society; or is it the opportunity to serve, to receive an education; or is it the challenge to succeed at a most difficult task? Undoubtedly, these generalities are partial answers to the question, but surely there must be more. There must be a growth in sensitive powers, a broadening of realization, and a depth of understanding for the human race that leads the nurse forward. Yes, there must be!

VALUE
EDUCATION

The student, who early learns through the influence of his home-life to place scholastic achievement and knowledge high in life's ambition, is indeed fortunate.

He will not be among those drop-outs you hear so much about these days as presenting a serious, national social and economic problem.

Students who do not finish high school are asking for the least out of life. Those who drop out of college may severely handicap themselves.

Technological progress, while creating many new jobs, requires more education and more skill. The simple fact is that better jobs await the schooled.

If students realize this, then that knowledge alone contributes to their education. That knowledge will beget knowledge which is the progress of education and the end result is an enriched life.

The Montanan

May 14, 1965

M.S.C. Students,

As this college year draws to a close, I can look back with pride to the many activities and accomplishments this year has brought forth. However, without the help and constructive criticism by the people around me these accomplishments would still be only thoughts and dreams. I especially want to thank Jeanne, Gary, Bob, George, Pam, and Ann for their efforts, advice, and ideas that went into production of this book.

I sincerely want to thank my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bacon, my sister Elaine, and my brothers, Bob and Kim, for their sacrifices and efforts which made it possible for me to edit the 1965 Montanan.

The editing of the Montanan has certainly provided a heighth, breadth, and depth of my education for which I thank you, the students of M.S.C., for giving me the opportunity to serve you. If in thumbing through the pages of this book in later years, you recall with pride the memories of your college days, I have succeeded in my efforts.

Your 1965 Montanan Editor,
DON BACON
